

Continence Equipment Prescribing Service

Following evaluation of the pilot against the outcomes it was expected to achieve, it has been decided to close the pilot. The CCG is working closely with the seven practices who were involved in the pilot to ensure a smooth transition for patients and staff. There will be no impact for other practices and their patients but a brief overview of key information can be found in the briefing below, if needed. If you have any queries or concerns please contact Louise Horsfield, Commissioning and Transformation Manager: louise.horsfield@nhs.net

For more information please see below document.

What is the Cobweb pilot?

Cobweb is a continence prescription management system, provided by Bard Ltd, which has been piloted in the following GP practices since July 2016.

*Jorvik Gillygate
York Medical Group
East Parade Surgery*

*Posterngate Surgery
Old School Medical Practice*

*Tadcaster Medical Centre
Sherburn Group Practice*

The system has a dedicated nurse prescriber undertaking patient reviews and issuing repeat prescriptions for patients.

What is the outcome of the pilot?

Following evaluation of the pilot against the outcomes it was expected to achieve, it has been decided to close the pilot.

What is the timeline for the pilot being brought to a close?

Patient records will be returned to their GP practice from August onwards, with a view to the pilot being closed by 5 November 2018. Each practice will be transferred in turn; a schedule is available on request.

What is the impact of the closure of the pilot?

- For patients who were not involved in the pilot, there will be no impact.

- Patients who were involved in the pilot, previously requested their repeat prescriptions via a dedicated Bard call centre telephone number; following the transitional period, patients should request their prescription directly from their GP practice. Patients will be notified by letter of the date that they should begin ordering prescriptions from their GP practice, and Bard will continue to support their prescription ordering in the meantime.
- For the GP practices which participated in the pilot, the responsibility for prescribing continence products for these patients will be transferred back to them.
